recruits were coming in rapidly. Mr. Frank McGrew stated that he had just received a letter of Capt. Bushnell, who wrote that he had heard the most encouraging news from Hamilton county, which gives promise that Foraker and Kennedy will carry the county by a handsome majority. Mr McGrew further stated that preparations had be n made to provide those among the republicans who desired to go to Cincinnati with the Plug Hat Brigade and yet felt themselves unable to buy a ticket and hat, with both of these necessities. Elegant badges ton had him located for the night at the bearing on their face an eagle surmounting the portrait of Foraker would be distributed at the depot. These badges have been presented to the brigade by Capt. Bushnell, and weighing two and three-quarter pounds, and all members will receive them free of Judge Miller was the next speaker, and he discussed the excursion in his own energetic manner, denouncing what he termed the attempt of the Little Miami to work against the brigade by getting up an opposition excursion. He read and commented on the advertisement of Mr Bines as published in last evenings's GLORE-REPUBLIC, and concluded by calling on all republicans to see to it that everybody went by the Bee Line to make it a royal excursion which would emphasize the enthusiam in Springfield and show the voters of Hamilton county that Foraker's strength was tremendous. During the course of his remarks and at the conclusion the Judge was loudly applauded.

Following out the spirit of Judge Miller's remarks, Mr. Rollins stepped upon the stage and introduced the following resolution which was adopted by a unanimous standing vote smid much enthusiasm :

Mr. Foley then offered a resolution which was carried, providing that two members of the High street bridge, and Capt. Bushnell's the brigade go to Cincinnati Sunday to perfect the arrangements for the serenade. Mayor Goodwin and Mr. J. W. March were appointed for this purpose. It was then proposed that such of the ladies as desired to go could take the regular 8:15 Bee Line train provided the company would make a rate of $1,00. Mr. Knight was prezent and at once stated that his road would do tickets for this train (8:15) be sold profusely covered with floral offerings. The for ladies only. LAST SAD RITES. FUNERAL OF THE LATE CHIEF

by I. O. O. F. and Masonic Orders. [From Morning Edition.] The last sad rites in memory of Cnief Fred Schuchman and in consignment of his mortal remains to the tomb, occurred yesterday atternoon, and but seldom, if ever, in the history of Springfield, has a more imposing tuneral pageant wended its way through the streets of the city to Ferneliff in such solemn procedure, followed by more people and witnessed by a greater number of citizens than was the funeral of yesterday. It was a tribute of respect to a worthy official of this city whose days were ended on the earth forever, At about 2 o'clock the several secret societies and police, headed by Foreman's band, marched to the late residence of the chief and receiving the casket, and immediate friends of the deceased proceeded to the First Baptist church where the funeral services were held. The procession as tormed was a long and imposing one, and was formed as follows: City police force with representatives from Dayton, Xenia, Urbana and South Charleston, 38 in all; l. O. O. F., Ephriam lodge, Goethe lodge and Mad River Escampment, 125 members; Anthony and Cark Masonic lodges, 80 men, total 243. The pall bearers were made up from the several societies and the police force.

AT THE CHURCH. The First Baptist church was crowded to overflowing. Many of the vast concourse of people were not able to gain an entrance to hear the funeral service. The altar was this and it was therefore ordered that draped in mourning and trailing vines, and central piece consisted of a large urn of white flowers, upon which was a white dove. with outstretched pinions. This was the offering of respect by Mayor Goodwin. At the left was a vacant chair, heavily draped and upon which was a large sheaf of ripe wheat; on the same side was a tower of flowers and white floral cross, inscribed in purple flowers, "At Rest; ' these were made pillow of flowers in cribed in the same way with the word "Father On the right of the central figure was beautiful basket by a number of friends: fi ral compass and square by Anthony lodge; another basket from Thos. Boyd, and there were many other very appropriate decora-tions which were most tastefully arranged.

The services were opened with an anthem tist chor, consisting of Misses Hattie Bour ner and Anna Moore, Mesers. Geo. D. and C. Leedle, with Miss Nellie We tat the organ which was followed with reading from the pealms and prayer by Rev. Joseph Kyle, of the U. P. church omfort ourselves with the thought that God has great mercy, and His grace will finally save us from the consequences of wrong doing. We must remember that God is also just, law-abiding, and will not fail to visit our ransgressions upon us. There is but one channel by which this grace can reach us. It is by the stonement and our repentance for sip, and we are wise to consider today whether for us that channel is clear or not. If then, God has provided the means, he is sure to hold us responsible for our use of them, and no man can hope to receive mercy in any other way.

The deceased is known to you. His long continuance in office is a tribute to his faithtulness. He made his confession and had the esurance hat he was forgiven and accepted. After words of tender sympathy to the family, the services closed with the hymn, "Jesus lover of my soul."

AT THE VALLE. The long procession moved to Lime-stone street, and north to Main and out Main to Ferncliff Cemetery. Here the Masonic or-der first said their beautiful service over the casket in front of the vault, in the midst of a large crowd of sympathizing friends. After the Masons the I.O.O.F. performed their service, and consigned the casket to the vault, and the funeral cortege turned from the last resting place of a most taithful police officer and honored citizen, bidding Fred Schuchman a last farewell.

Record and Bass are retained until their can be filled by new appointers. The inspector explained to the new officers their duties, and instructed them how to proceed in making arrests. The new officers are Win. A. Gregory, John M. Marshall, James McKay, William DeLacy, and Edward N. Furness, who were all given night duty, excepting McKay. The beats of the reorganized force will be permanently as signed in a few days.

It was found that the demands for night duty are so pressing that only three men are available for the daylight hours—a very short force for a city the size of Springfield. The Foraker Club.

The Foraker club held a meeting last evening at their headquarters. It was expected that Mayor Goodwin would address the club, but owing to pressing duties his Honor was not able to be present, and his address will be delivered some time in the near future.
